

PRESS RELEASE

October 22nd 2008 Sydney, Australia

The 2008 Nissan 370GT Coupe (Skyline V36) sold in the US as the Infiniti G37 Coupe is now officially on sale in Australia through International Motor Group.

International Motor Group is proud to present to the Australian market the latest iteration of the famed Skyline sports car with history including the famous Skyline GT-R, which has had international motor sport success including victories at Bathurst. The all new 370GT coupe builds on this heritage and adds a new dimension of refinement and comfort.

The international press have acclaimed the 370GT / Infiniti G37 coupe. Journalists in the United States have compared the G37 coupe favourably with the BMW 335i Coupe. Motor Trend "The King is Dead" put the G37 ahead of it's German rival. Considering the price of the 370GT vs. the 335i here in Australia, the 370GT represents incredibly good value.

The 370GT provides a dynamic package powered by Nissan's new 3.7L V6 VVEL engine with 245kW at the driver's disposal. Acceleration isn't the only attribute of the 370GT, braking through 355mm rotors and mono-block 4 pot front callipers (available standard on the Type S and Type SP) provides serious stopping power and 4 wheel steering adds to an overall package that handles extremely well.

The interior is finished in black hand stitched leather with brushed aluminium console. Magnesium alloy paddle shifters are fitted behind the steering wheel on the Type S and Type SP automatic models. Heated seats with driver's seating position memory are fitted to the Type P and Type SP models.

Standard safety equipment includes rigid, safe Zone Body construction, driver and front passenger SRS Air Bag System, driver and front passenger SRS Side Air Bag System, SRS Curtain Air Bag System, Active Front Head Restraints and three-point ELR rear seat belts.

The 370GT coupe has been designed to offer greater pedestrian protection, featuring the application of Nissan's new "pop-up engine hood". When sensors embedded in the front bumper detect an impact with a pedestrian, the system can deploy a pyrotechnic actuator that raises the rear edge of the hood, creating a larger protective buffer between the hood and the engine components beneath, cushioning the impact of the pedestrian's head if it was to collide with the hood.

Already International Motor Group is holding a number of advanced orders. IMG will offer customers full support with the Nissan 370GT including warranty, servicing & parts.

The first deliveries of the Nissan 370GT coupe were made on Saturday 11th October with the first two road registered 370GTs in Australia hitting Sydney streets. Reaction to the grand touring coupe has been positive with many commenting on the beautiful styling and high quality finish.

Certification approval was achieved in September by technical partners GT Compliance.
